

MONOLOGUE JOKES

I'm so glad the World Cup soccer games are finally over. Just another thing I'm supposed to pretend that I care about every 4 years. Like my wife's orgasms. And just like her orgasms, after 2 straight hours of kicked balls and faked moans, there's still no score.

A father in Utah said that a hospital charged him $39.95 to hold his newborn baby. But the good news is that for just 20 bucks, they let him wave at the kid.

CNN political commentator Ana Navarro said that the Trump Administration has a harder time keeping employees than McDonald's. When asked for comment, former White House Communications Director Anthony Scaramucci said, "Would you like fries with that?"

After going on a racist rampage at a Chicago Starbucks yesterday, a neo-Nazi ventriloquist insisted that he's not a racist. But what's really going to ruin his reputation is that when he made his denial, you could see his lips move. When questioned separately, his dummy refused to comment.

The 2018 Kennedy Center Awards will be honoring Cher and the play Hamilton. They have a lot in common since they both had 11 Tonys in one night.

"Jersey Shore's" JWOWW just launched a lip kit cosmetics line. It's called "Chlamydia".

At a recent concert, Britney Spears suffered a wardrobe malfunction when her strap broke. But there were more complaints about the audio malfunction when her mic worked.

The CEO of Time Warner just resigned after 2 ½ years of work. Man, it even takes the CEO 2 ½ years to cancel his Time Warner contract.

Starting next year, Switzerland's Lucerne University will offer a degree in yodeling. Also starting next year, Lucerne University will offer a degree in "Sticking Your Fingers In Your Ears."

A New York teen has been accepted at all eight Ivy League schools. Those are just her safety schools, though. She's still waiting to hear from Trump University.

CNN reports that Queen Elizabeth has earned over $8.8 million in horse-racing prize money. I know that sounds like a lot, but it's still less than Mike Pence has made running White House basement cockfights.

A stockbroker turned Hell's Angel who's accused of murder, decapitation, and drug trafficking has been extradited back to the United States. You know, I'm a pretty liberal guy, but even I draw the line at letting in stockbrokers.

A recent scientific study shows that drunk people don't know how drunk they really are.

"No, YOU'RE drunk, Science!"

Paleontologists are excited that they have just identified the world's largest dinosaur foot. "Hey, who do you have to screw to get some positive press around here?" said an irate Bigfoot.

A recent study showed what one dollar can buy around the world. In Japan, a little kid can get a Snickers bar. In Italy, a thirsty man can get an espresso. And in the United States, a dollar will get a woman about three quarters.

There's a new dating app just for rich people who went to private schools. It's called incestry.com.

Police arrested a naked man who was doing jumping jacks in a Kentucky McDonald's ladies room. Meanwhile, the naked woman doing jumping jacks in the men's room was applauded and never reported.

WikiLeaks just published millions of people's private security information. I keep hoping WikiLeaks will publish all my passwords, because I can never remember them.

Pan Pan the Panda recently passed away in China. Pan Pan the Panda was best known for having the world's most unimaginative parents.

The Queen's lingerie designer was fired after writing a tell-all book about royal bra fittings. Coincidentally, that was also the reason that Donald Trump fired Sean Spicer.

(Photoshopped picture of Spicer holding a few bras while Trump tries one on.)

DESK PIECES

New State Mottos

"States occasionally update their official mottos to better reflect their changing ideals and standards. Here at Late Night, we're doing our part to help out the process."

New Hampshire: A Beautiful Prosperity

Ohio: Here Exist Infinite Possibilities

Alabama: The Age Of Consent For Sheep Is Still Only 3

Oklahoma: Forward To Forever

Vermont: United By Hope

Florida: Most Of Our Racists Are In Bed By 9

West Virginia: As Many Opportunities As Stars In The Sky

South Carolina: Virtue Always Triumphs

New York: WHAT THE %$&# ARE YOU LOOKING AT?!

Next Season's Reality TV Shows

"I think TV has finally run out original reality show ideas. Nowadays, it seems like everything is just a sequel or a slight tweak to an earlier show. For example, here's what's premiering in September."

America's Next Top Predator (video of a dozen guys hiding behind trees in a park)

Keeping Up With The Kardashian's Plastic Surgeries (video of jiggling bags marked "Fat" being taken out of a hospital door marked "Suction Surgery Exit," followed by video of the same bags of fat being taken into a hospital door marked "Implant Surgery Entrance")

Last Comic Standing Around Bitching About How the Winner Stole All His Jokes (video of disheveled comics griping into their cell phones and angrily pointing to all the other comics)

America's Funniest Home Vasectomies (video is blacked out, but you hear a guy's loud screams)

19 Kids And Counting Until The Day I Get On "America's Funniest Home Vasectomies" (same video as above then pulls back to a guy sitting on the couch eating a TV dinner, wistfully watching "America's Funniest Home Vasectomies") while 19 kids run around him screaming and throwing things as he looks at his dinner spork then down at his crotch)

Our Bad

Corrections are read at the end of The Tonight Show.

Jimmy Fallon: "Here at The Tonight Show, we take our position as Television Journalists very seriously. No fake news for our viewers. For that reason, Steve Higgins is now our real-time Fact-Checker who keeps us honest as the show goes on. Steve, how did we do tonight?"

Higgins: "Earlier, we introduced Will Ferrell as 'one of our most talented and beloved actors and funnymen.' That is not true. In fact, he is barely tolerable."

"We said that Chris Pratt was our all-time favorite guest. We were wrong. Our favorite guest ever is Gwyneth Paltrow." Paltrow walks on-stage, tears up a headshot of Pratt, then leaves.

"We stated that Jimmy Fallon was a wonderful boss and that everyone here just loved working for him. I don't know what we were thinking." Cut to a shot of a mad and surprised Fallon. Cut back to Higgins who is ripping up a headshot of Fallon.

Positive Spin Headlines

Take a negative headline and make it sound better.

Original headline: Man Kills Himself in Attempt To Cure His Hiccups.

Positive spin headline: Man Kills Himself In Successful Attempt To Cure His Hiccups.

Original headline: 50 Deadly Cobras On The Loose In China.

Positive spin headline: 50 Empty Wicker Baskets Become Available In China.

Original headline: Mom Finds Worms In Baby Formula.

Positive spin headline: Baby Birds Can't Get Enough Of New Formula.

New movie rating abbreviations

C-Bro-13 = Movie contains a California guy saying "bro" 13 or more times.

MB = Caution, manbuns.

Hep-C = No one admitted because Charlie Sheen is in it.

AUDIENCE PIECES

Headshots

"As you know, we sometimes do sketches here on Conan. And when we do, we put out a call to agents who send us headshots based on the roles we're trying to fill. Since we have a sketch coming up next week, we thought we'd share with you the headshots we received for each role."

The camera zooms in on audience members, freeze-frames their head and borders it like a headshot, then puts a name underneath it. Descriptions are read and match with the audience.

- Country veterinarian. (Older, gentle-looking guy. Show name "Barney Willard.")
- Small-town public librarian. (Aunt Bea-looking woman. Show name "Nell Applebee.")
- High school librarian. (Sexy woman. Show name "Francesca Statutory-Cougar.")
- Ex-football captain, current wife-beater. (Lumberjack-looking guy. Show name "Brock Notwoke.")
- Alabama drifter who's stolen a car and has a kidnapped rodeo clown in the trunk. (Creepy-looking guy. Show name "Bones Braker.")
- Rodeo clown. (Andy Richter. Show name "Andrew Richter.")
- Drifter's kombucha-bootlegging friend. (Nervous looking hippie guy. Show name "Cheech N. Chong.")
- Irish Back model (like a hand model, but just her back) with trampstamps of the drifter, his friend, and the clown on her back. (Camera close-up comes from behind audience to show freckled woman's naked back, Photoshopped with the 3 trampstamps - clown's is just his big clownfeet sticking out of a closed car trunk. Show name "Ann O'Nymous.")
- Insane, escaped mental patient (Close-up freeze-frame on Conan. Show name "Colin O'Brian" [named misspelled].)

Finish The Cheer

Conan goes up to preselected audience members who tell him things about their lives. Where they're from, marriage, hobbies, etc. The Conan O'Brien Cheerleading Squad™ (middle-aged, unshaven men with pot bellies who are wearing tank tops and tiny, shiny shorts) then goes up and down the aisle dancing and waving pompoms singing a cheer about the member. But they leave the last line unfinished (with an open rhyming word that could be guessed). After the audience member guesses the last line wrong, the cheerleaders finish the cheer. The final cheer is always about Conan.

Hey, hey, hey, are you ready to go?
It's Kevin the banker from Amarillo.

He likes to swim, his wife Karen's real slim.

And . . .

Kevin guesses: "He plays golf with his big brother Jim?"

COCS final line: He has a secret lover named Rin Tin. (Shot of an enamored German shepherd sitting in the audience staring at Kevin.)

V-I-C-T-O-R-Y.

Katy likes onions, but they make her cry.

Big G, little O.

Go, go, go.

She is the gal with . . .

Katy guesses: "A job in Ohio?"

COCS final line: A freaky big toe . . . that pretends not to know . . . that faux Thoreau schmo . . . James Franco. (Shot of her foot, then a shot of an enamored James Franco sitting in the audience staring at her foot. The foot then slowly turns away.)

Conan, Conan.

He's our man.

If he can't do it, . . .

Conan happily guesses: "Nobody can?"

COCS final line: HE PASTY! HE PASTY! HE PASTY! HE PASTY! (Conan does a furious reaction shot which is frozen on the screen.)

FIELD PIECES

James Corden Umpires A Beer League Softball Game

Corden says that he was never much for playing ball when he was younger because it's not really a British thing, and his Dad was too busy just working around the yard to play with him much anyway. But he just discovered adult beer softball leagues, and they look fun. He's a little too old to play now, but he's not too old to umpire and drink beer. Cut to him showing up at home plate in a tuxedo and top hat, already drinking beer as he meets with the other umpires. He asks them the most basic questions about the game, like what's a bat and how does a run score? When he's told there are 3 outs, he asks if that means that everyone else is still in the closet. He eventually gets into arguments with the other umps about rules and their ability, and this continues throughout the game.

Since it's a softball league, he's constantly drinking beers. As he gets drunker, he starts sort of playing the game as a player. He slides into bases (camera shows him sliding in from one side and the runner sliding in from another). He grabs the ball and tags a runner but still calls him safe because "I missed the tag." He asks for an instant replay, and when told they don't have that, he looks at a video on his phone of the movie "Field of Dreams." It's the moment when Kevin Costner says "Hey Dad, you wanna have a catch?" The camera then cuts back to Corden with buckets of tears running down his face.

Corden starts arguments with managers, chest-bumping the manager, throwing his hat and kicking dirt on the plate. When a ball is hit out of play (either a homer or a foul over the backstop), he reaches into his ballbag and pulls out a donut and eats it.

The segment ends with him passed out drunk on the ground at home plate and all the players and managers covering him up by kicking dirt on him. They leave, he comes to, shakes off some of the dirt, and says faintly, "Hey Dad, you wanna have a catch?" His Dad (played by Corden made up to look old) then pours a wheelbarrow full of dirt on him.

Cousin Sal Goes To A Homebrew Convention

Cousin Sal starts off by explaining that homebrew and micro-breweries are big business nowadays. At least as big as an industry can be that's run by boring and pretentious alcoholics. He walks the floor and visits a lot of the booths, sampling the beers. He carries a white rhino horn to drink out of, because "When I go beer pompous, I go endangered species beer pompous." He insults the brewers by making faces and pretentiously saying things like "This beer is as subtle as a kick in the crotch with steel-toed boots.", "It has the suggestive aroma of a bus driver's seat with just a flutter of Target-brand dog shampoo.", and "This would pair well with Cheez Whiz", as he sprays Cheez Whiz on top of the beer and drinks/eats it.

He makes his way over to his own booth, where he has his own beer on display. In flashback, we see that he's just rebottled Miller Lite with a new hipster-looking label. His brew table has rusty tubs, dirty bottles, and for some reason, rolls and rolls of hospital gauze on it. In the background, there's a Health Inspection sign with an "F." He says that it means "F'ing awesome." His beer's name is "Sal's Vation". When someone says that's a clever play on "Salvation," he says no, it's because he salivates into every bottle. In flashback, he takes a swig out of every bottle, spits the beer back into it, then the flashback continues with the same rebottling film flashback as before.

As he talks up his beer, he constantly badmouths the guy's beer one booth over. "You see that guy over there? He won't admit it, but he ferments his beer using carnival donkey crap. Oh excuse me" (now yelling over towards the other beer guy), "I mean Artisan Burro Dung."

At the end of the night, he awards himself an "F'ing Awesome" trophy, and as he walks by his nearby nemesis, he hands him a trophy of a donkey crapping into a beer bottle.

MEDIA PIECES

Snark Week

"As everyone knows, this is The Discovery Channel's Shark Week. Sharks are considered probably the most dangerous killers on the planet. But frankly, watching sharks kill and destroy pales in comparison to what we have here at Conan. So strap yourself in as we celebrate SNARK WEEK!"

Visual comes up that says SNARK WEEK with running, bloody type font, and a swimming shark giving side-eye.

Conan and Andy then watch videos of sharks swimming around saying snarky things. Conan and Andy do reaction type lines like "That's not nice" and "Why are they being so mean?"

The stock video shows the sharks sort of swimming up to one another then swimming away as they talk. They insult:

- Celebrities - "Guy Fieri dives down here with us? He doesn't need a shark tank. He's about as likely to get eaten as a meal at his Times Square restaurant." (Video of Guy Fieri in a shark tank.) "I've eaten truck tires and bags of medical waste, but you couldn't pay me enough to even nibble on Charlie Sheen." (Video of a shark throwing up.)

- Fashion - "Ah, girlfriend, unless you're heading back to prison, which wouldn't be a big surprise, you might want to rethink the horizontal stripes" (as a striped shark swims by).

- Other sharks - "Oh great, here comes that slut, Khloe. She's not fooling anyone with that lip filler." (Video of a shark with big lips.) "Next time maybe brush your teeth if you want to keep a real hammerhead." (Khloe shark has all sorts of food in its mouth.)

- Sharks look into the camera as though they're looking at Conan and start to insult him. "Oh wow, it's Conan O'Brien. His show's on some trucker CB channel now, isn't it? People think we never get any sun down here, but that is one pastyass white boy. Come on, let's go see who's on Fallon tonight". Then every shark quickly swims away.

Caterpillar or Hipster Facial Hair?

The host shows a close-up picture of hair. After guessing whether it's from a caterpillar or a hipster moustache or beard, the camera pulls back to show the answer. The next-to-last picture in the bit is of a hipster wearing dozens of caterpillars as facial hair. The last picture is a caterpillar's face that has the exact same weird facial hair that a hipster had in an earlier photo.

SKETCH

Evil Twin

Conan is in the middle of his monologue when his Director says off-screen that they have to stop taping because there's a car on fire in the parking lot. They cut to the lot, where a beat-up old Pinto is on fire. Andy laughs and says "What loser would ever drive that piece of junk?" right as Conan yells out, "That's my car!" and runs off the stage.

About 2 seconds later, entering from the other side of the stage comes Conan with his hair parted on the other side and wearing an old-time villain's moustache. (This is not played as Conan in disguise, but as a different character.) Andy says, "Oh God no, it's Conan's evil twin, Moanin' O'Brien." Moanin' is carrying a gas can and a lighter. He then insults that night's guests, Andy, the band, the audience, and especially Conan. He runs over to Conan's desk and douses it with gas, as the Director shouts "Go to commercial" off-screen and Moanin' is wrestled away.

Conan comes back after the commercial break, mentions that his desk feels wet and smells odd, but continues on with the show. As he signs off at the end of the show, he puts his feet up, leans back, lights a cigar, and tosses the match down. There is then stock footage of a nuclear bomb explosion as credits roll.

Cold Open For The Tonight Show

Screenshot of The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon
moonshot logo

ANNOUNCER (V.O. in Spanish in dramatic, deep voice.)

Anteriormente en "The Tonight Show protagonizada por Jimmy Fallon".

(English subtitle)

Previously on "The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon".

(Close-up shot of a book - "Español Para Stupidos".)

(English subtitle)

Spanish For Dummies.

(Camera pulls back to show Jimmy reading the book in a library.
Other books are also on the table.
He runs his finger down the last page, finishing the book, and smiles.)

JIMMY (Proudly.)

Bueno.

(English subtitle)

Good.

(Jimmy tries to remember something but can't. Runs his finger down page 1, finds what he's looking for and smiles.)

JIMMY (Proudly.)

Muy bueno.

(English subtitle)

Very good.

(Jimmy loudly slams book shut.)

V.O.

Shhhhhhh!

(English subtitle)

Shhhhhhh!

JIMMY (Leafs through the book and says over his shoulder.)

Lo siento.

(English subtitle)

I'm sorry.

(Camera pulls back and shows Sofia Vergara - at her most Vergaraness - sitting at a desk behind a "Librarian" nameplate.)

LIBRARIAN

Es mejor estar, usted repugnante saco de estúpida sonrisa.

(English subtitle)

You better be, you sickening sack of stupid smiles.

(Jimmy doesn't know what she said, but he smiles and nods in agreement.)

JIMMY (Saying Spanish phrases out loud, but talking to himself.)

Me llamo Jimmy.

(English subtitle)

My name is Jimmy.

(Elderly Hispanic Nun is slowly tottering by as Jimmy says that.)

NUN

Quién carajo le importa?

("Carajo" is bleeped out with a mariachi band note of music.)

(English subtitle)

Who the English-music-bleep cares? (Subtitle actually says "English-music-bleep".)

(Jimmy again smiles.)

JIMMY (Fumbles through the book, wanting to say something nice to the Nun.)

Bailas muy bien.

(English subtitle)

You dance very well.

(Nun slowly flips Jimmy the bird [which is blurred out] as she walks away.)

(English subtitle)

The finger.

LIBRARIAN

Que no me hagan llegar más allá y stick mi arranca su culo.

(English subtitle)

Don't make me come over there and stick my boot up your butt.

(Jimmy doesn't know what the Librarian said, but again smiles confidently.)

(A 5-piece strolling mariachi band plays its way loudly over to the Librarian's desk. She fawns over it.)

JIMMY (Over his shoulder without looking.)

Shhhhhhh.

(English subtitle)

Oh my God, did he just shush her?

(Librarian rushes over to Jimmy and starts screaming at him in Spanish, making violent hand gestures, and showing him that she's wearing heavy work boots. With each gesture, the mariachi band plays a note as though they're bleeping out every other word.)

(English subtitle)

@#"> eviscerate &^%$ snot-nosed ^$#^ festering cesspit %&) pitbull will >/& on your grave (>&$ insignificant mismatched testicles ^$%# so-called underpants $#/\@ and the )&$ you rode in on.

JIMMY (Scared and confused.
 Thumbing through the book.)

Que car . . . ?

(Librarian slaps the book out of Jimmy's hand mid-word.)

(English subtitle)

What the fu . . . ?

(The book falls on the table.
 Jimmy picks up the wrong book and we see it says "Le Français Pour Les Nuls".)

(English subtitle)

French For Dummies.

JIMMY (In a panic, opens the book to a random page and reads the first thing he sees.)

Voulez-vous coucher avec moi ce soir?

LIBRARIAN (Pointing down to the subtitle area of the screen.
 Speaks in English.)

Don't translate that. We all know what it means.

(English subtitle)

A butt-kicking.

(Librarian rears back to punch Jimmy in the mouth. The action is freeze-framed right before the punch lands.)

STEVE HIGGINS (V.O. to usual
 "Tonight Show" video opening.)

Tonight join Jimmy and his guests, "Modern Family's"
 Sofia Vergara. The star of "Blade Runner 2049", Ryan Gosling. And quote/unquote Doctor Patrick Gabbedy, the unlicensed plastic surgeon who recently reconstructed Jimmy's face.